Title IX Abuse & Discrimination

Title IX applies to local and state educational and other agencies that receive federal financial assistance to protect you against sex-based discrimination. When discrimination or abuse occurs, you may have a private right of action to file a lawsuit.

JGL delivers zealous survivor advocacy in representing you in litigation against federally funded institutions, including schools, universities, and colleges. We advocate the rights of individuals, students, and employees, including faculty members, who suffered damages due to a denial of educational benefits and opportunities because of an educational institution's Title IX violations. Our Title IX litigation practice is supported by decades of honed skill in litigating victims' rights in sexual harassment, sexual assault, and sexual discrimination claims.
