"My goal is to provide unparalleled legal representation of clients by helping them solve their problems in a cost-effective, constructive manner while being able to litigate matters aggressively should that course of action become necessary and in the client's best interest."

Eric has been practicing primarily family law since 2002. While he concentrates his practice on high-conflict child custody and divorce matters in contentious litigation, he handles all matters of family law including negotiations, mediations, and property settlement agreements.

Eric has an extensive law enforcement background and he has significant experience handling family law matters that also involve allegations of criminal wrongdoing.

Eric is also a commissioned officer in the U.S. Army Reserve Judge Advocate General's Corps.
