Continuing Legal Education for Professionals

Principal Steven B. Vinick recently worked with the National Business Institute to lead a webinar for lawyers wishing to continue their education. The webinar, titled “Ethics for Every Attorney” offered a dialogue about tough ethical situations that attorneys may face in their profession as well as how to maintain an ethical foundation when working in the legal industry.

“The National Business Institute offers a wide variety of resources for attorneys to not only continue their education but also to stay up-to-date on the ever-changing legal world,” Vinick says. “I am proud to be a part of the strong momentum found within the NBI community.”

The National Business Institute is dedicated to providing continuing legal education. They provide educational materials in a variety of formats including live webcasts, books, and videos. Their topics range from family law to government law and everywhere in between.

A principal in Joseph, Greenwald & Laake’s Personal Injury, Medical Malpractice and Civil Litigation practice groups, Steven Vinick has more than 20 years of experience in representing clients in matters including medical malpractice, personal injury and criminal defense. Over the course of that career, Steven has earned a reputation as a skilled litigator and highly effective courtroom advocate.
