On Monday, July 23, Joseph, Greenwald & Laake worked with entrepreneur coach Veronica Matthews to help inform local businesspeople in making their first hires and expanding their businesses in the early stages. JGL and Veronica also discussed proper handling of employees once first hires are made, such as putting proper employee processes in place in a timely and efficient manner.

JGL's sponsorship is a part of a series of seminars conducted by the Prince George's County Economic Development Council (PGCEDC). As part of its commitment to serving the greater community, JGL works hand-in-hand with groups like the PGCEDC and individual community members like Veronica Matthews to provide high-quality legal counsel. In addition to Veronica's talk, the PGCEDC has more than a month of events planned to help local entrepreneurs improve their businesses.
